CHIANCIANO ART MUSEUM CULTURE AND TRADITION

The Museum organises a parade of the flag flyers of Città della Pieve, in honour of the Biennale artists.

PREFACE

The highly anticipated Biennale of Chianciano 2011, set amongst the stunning Tuscan landscape is one of the most important contemporary art shows in Europe. The event draws together a global network of artists, galleries, and art enthusiasts, connecting them in the town of Chianciano, famous for its rejuvenating springs. The Etruscans recognised the healing power of these springs as early as the 5th century B.C. and, to this day, Chianciano is a centre of health and culture. The springs symbolise the role of the Biennale; a revival of contemporary art in an enchanting region that has inspired artists and writers from Dante to Michelangelo for centuries.

The Biennale hosts the finest artistic talent from around the world - from emerging talents to those well established and present in the permanent collections of some of the most important museums in the world. The diversity of the artists present can be seen within the artwork on display, providing a fascinating insight into a distinctive array of cultures and traditions. The incredible skill and ability of the artists has set them apart from thousands of applicants in the eyes of the selection committee, composed of art critics, curators, and experts. The venue will be a connecting point for these world-class artists to gain international exposure and, this year, the participants have been given the exceptional opportunity of inviting 300 galleries to attend the exhibition as guests of the Museum, adding yet another dimension to the global nature of this event. Furthermore, representatives from Oxford University Alumni will be in attendance, as the Museum is the Tuscan base for the Oxford Alumni Society, and there will be exponents of the European Confederation of Art Critics. Both institutions will have separate Jury panels and will be presenting distinct awards to selected Biennale artists.

The Chianciano Art Museum is home to an eclectic collection; comprised of works by renowned and influential artists ranging from Old Masters such as Dürer and Rembrandt to the more contemporary Damien Hirst and Salvador Dalí. The atmosphere of the museum is one of modern elegance, blending a tasteful display of classic and contemporary artwork while implementing innovative methods to communicate the visions and passions of the artists. It is within these surroundings that the artwork for the Biennale will be displayed. The presentation of the artworks is always of paramount importance and undergoes careful consideration and reason; every aspect is considered, from the angle of light, the composition and planning of the halls, the interwoven styles and subjects, in order to maximise the visual impact of the artwork thus creating a setting worthy and fitting for display and appreciation.

This year, artists also have the opportunity to reach beyond their visual communication with exclusive artist interviews called "The Voice of the Artist," carried out in the Museum's television studio. This possibility provides the viewer with deeper insight into the artists' work and ensures that the individuality of each talent is highlighted among the mosaic of cultures, ideas, and artistic styles during the event.

This is a unique exhibition that hosts extraordinary works which will stimulate viewers to observe their environment in a new way and will provide an exciting transformational experience, both intellectual and emotional.
